

Real Time DW

by Sudheer Sharma - Sunday, November 30, 2008

<http://dwhnotes.com/archives/1520>

What do you think of this post?

Awesome \(0\) Interesting \(0\) Useful \(0\)

What I mean with real time DW here is: when the source system is updated, within few seconds that change is reflected in the DW. Generally speaking there are 3 ways to achieve this:

- 1) using a normalized data model,
- 2) using a dimensional data model and
- 3) keep the data in the source system.

What do you think of this post?

Awesome \(0\) Interesting \(0\) Useful \(0\)